Poetry.

The Conscientious Hen.

"Dear! dear! who broke my favorite egg?"
Cried Biddy Bantam to her daughter;
"Some lazy curr, too proud to beg.
Has mashed it—and he hadn't ought to."

The child gave one pathetic craw,
Her rueful tears began to thicken;
She sobbed aloud, "I broke it ma—
This little person is my chicken.

Some albumen and lim I'll buy,
And make another one to match it;
Oh, ma! I cannot tell a lie—
I did it with my little hatch it."

Selected Story.

Just for Amusement.

"Out again this evening, Nettie?"

Aunt Mary looked up from her sewing at the bright little brunette, who was unusually brilliant in an evening dress of scarlet tissue, with white feather, flowers looping in the overskirt, and clusters of the same in the heavy jetty braids of her lustrous hair.

"I might as well have a good time while I can, Aunt Mary," Nettie said, twirling herself round before the long mirror, to admire her bright skirts, and her tiny, slippered feet. "Only two more weeks here, and I must go back to Wheaton, and bury myself!"

"Nettie!"

"There, auntie, don't look so shocked! I know you think my future husband is perfection, and, between ourselves, so do I. But, after all, a country parson's wife cannot expect much gayety, and I mean to crowd all I can into these two weeks of liberty."

"Where are you going to-night?"

"To Mrs. Hunt's. Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds will call for me and Count Lodoski."

"Again!" Aunt Mary's voice was stern, and there was an unusual severity in her blue eyes. "You know how strongly I disapprove of your accepting the escort of Count Lodoski."

"But he is not my escort," said perverse Nettie. "Mr. and Mrs. Reynolds will call in their carriage. I don't believe in the Count any more than you do, auntie; and all his pathetic wails over his dear Poland fall upon most unbelieving ears when confided to me. Notwithstanding, he is most entertaining company, dresses perfectly, is handsome as an Adonis, and waltzes like a dancing master. So, because he amuses me, I allow him to be my escort in the absence of the Rev. Alfred Martin, who will hold me soon, fast and firm, in the chains of matrimony. Hark the carriage is here. Good night! don't sit up for me!"

And wrapping herself in a large cloak of softest white cashmere, Nettie kissed her aunt; and sped with dancing feet from the room.

In the carriage she found the young couple who had offered her the spare seat there, and she found, also, the Polish count, who was the latest society lion in the city of B——, and who was decidedly attracted by the witching beauty of the gay brunette. Whether it had been whispered in his ear that she was heiress to Wheaton and five thousand a year, can only be conjectured; but he was a most devoted adorer, and Nettie carelessly encouraged his attentions.

She had inherited Wheaton from her grandfather when she was a little child, and her father being dead, her mother had shared the guardianship of the little heiress with her uncle Joshua, so that summer in Wheaton was followed by winter in the city, where school-days were succeeded by all the pleasures of society after Nettie passed her eighteenth year. It must be confessed that the bright little beauty was a petted, spoiled child—a wilfull girl whose life had been one long sunshine, with every whim indulged, every caprice gratified.

Serious thoughts had found little place in her giddy head and pleasure loving heart, till the Rev. Alfred Martin accepted a call to the village of Morton, near which Wheaton was situated. He was not a handsome man, not a facinating man in any sense that Nettie had ever thought of the word, but he had one gift that embraces many others in a truly christian minister—he was earnest. To him, the vocation of his life was one that absorbed heart and brain to the exclusion of all effort to be attractive in society, or win worldly praise. Yet the very sincerity of the man, fully ten years her senior, proved a charm Nettie could not resist.

From the careless ease of her petted life, his sermons, like trumpet-calls, roused her to a sense of the responsibility resting upon her as a woman holding in her hand the gifts of perfect health, energy and wealth. Like a butterfly, she had tasted sweets here and there, thinking but little of the bitter cups given to the less fortunate, till the earnest appeals of the new preacher stirred her to considering the stewardship entrusted to her care.

She had no thought of pleasing the minister when she took up a share of parish duty, sewed for the Dorcas and visited the sick and poor. Admiration and attention had been offered her too freely for her to dream of courting them, but, impulsive in everything, she threw the whole force of her ardent, generous nature into the new path of duty Mr. Martin's eloquence had pointed out to her.

A large proportion of her income was drawn from a large cotton factory in Morton, and among the operatives there Nettie soon found employment for leisure hours, and avenues for all spare dollars. It was in the spring that Mr. Martin came to Morton, and in the summer a fever broke out in the settlement where mill operatives dwelt, in small cottages and large, crowded tenement-houses It was impossible for Nettie to enter into any undertaking with lukewarm interest, and once engaged in trying to aid the sufferers she devoted time and money with an unsparing hand. Her own glorious health bore her through the danger of contagion unharmed, and her cheerful, buoyant disposition was sunlight among the sick children, who were her especial care. Yet when the death-film gathered over childish eyes, no voice could soften the dark passage to the grave with sweeter, more earnest words of comfort and promise than Nettie's.

Seeing her thus, through the long weeks of toil and danger, asking her to aid where money was urgently needed, finding her at her post where the air was thick with fever and the danger frightfully near, Alfred Martin grew to consider the beautiful dark face as fairer than his ideal of angels, and to think there was no music like Nettie's clear, melodious voice. By the magnetism of his own true, earnest words, he had led her from frivolity to the seeking of high er aims and duties, and by the power of the strong love wakened in his own heart he drew her into his keeping. She loved, as she followed all other impulses, with fervent and deep affection, while she was daily meeting her lover, and the guide to all the nobler pursuits of her life.

Mrs. Wheaton, a meek little widow was only too glad to think of her child's future intrusted to the care of a truly good man, as she believed the Rev. Alfred Martin to be, and gave glad consent to an engagement. And while autumn winds were sweeping the fever from Norton, Nettie was learning the sweet lesson of loving submission to a stronger will, was conquering many a lifelong selfishness and folly to please her betrothed, and believing that she had lost all relish for the frivolities of the past.

Had the marrage followed at once upon the wooing, I think there would have been happiness at the parsonage, where were the influence of the earnest minister would have deepened till Nettie no longer needed any earthly guide or support. But Mrs. Wheaton decided that the bride's trousseau should come from B, and when the new year opened Nettie went to her Aunt Mary's to remain till milliners and dressmakers completed her outfit. The wedding-day was to be in march, and while Aunt Mary shopped and stitched, Nettie took farewell of the gayeties of her city home. She did not mean to be inconsistent, or to break any of the good resolutions of the past few months, but old friends welcomed her with festive gatherings, and before she realized it she was dancing, flirting, and flitting from party to party with all her old zest and enjoyment.

Then, just for amusement, she allowed the new lion, Count Lodoski, to pay her marked attention. She told herself she was safe in her happy engagement, and that he was too much of a society man to have any serious intentions. It was a mere flirtation for both of them, and it served to pass away time to listen to the stories of the Polish exile, to walse with him, drive, walk, ride with him, and yet, with a woman's skill and a coquet's ingenuity, keep him from any compromising offer that would end the amusement.

The term of Nettie's visit was nearly over, when the entertainment at Mrs. Hunts called together a large number of her old friends and new admirers. Count Lodoski was more ardent than usual in his expressions of admiration, and Nettie was uncomfortably conscious that he was presuming upon the encouragement he had received. The evening passed quickly, and it was near supper time when the Count with a courteous bow, offered his arm to Nettie for a stroll through the conservatory, where a number of couples were enjoying the cool, fragrant air, after a dizzy waltz. They were chatting gayly of the pleasures of the past few weeks, of the coming festivities before Lent, when Nettie, looking up, found they were the sole occupants of the conservatory. The strains of the newest galop fully explained the absence of their former companions, and the girl was moving toward the door, when the count gently but firmly held her back. She realized in an instant the position into which her own folly had brought her, but firmly held her back. She realized in an instant the pesiton into which her own folly had brought her, but tried to affect unconsciousness still.

"I am engaged for this galop, Count," she said, with her usual sweet smile, "so you must not detain me now."

"Yet for a little you will stay with me," said the handsome foreigner, in his strongly accented English. "I must say a few words with you."

"Another time!"

"Now!"

The man's voice had a ring of authority that Nettie resented instantly.

"Let me pass!" she said, haughtily. "You forget yourself strangely, sir."

"I forget all but love when I am near you," he cried, and broke into a stream of eloquence, an unmistakable offer of heart and hand, more than hinting that he was sure of a return of his ardently expressed devotion.

In vain Nettie endeavored to check the flow of words, every one of which she felt was an insult to the man she really loved, in spite of her foolish vanity, and to whom she had promised faithful affection. The count spoke so rapidly that not until he paused for his reply could Nettie find an opportunity even to speak.

Then, in a faltering voice, half choked by her contending emotions, she declined the honor of an alliance with the Polish nobleman.

"You cannot mean to refuse me!" he cried, in genuine astonishment; "you cannot mean that you have been coquetting so heartlessly!"

"I mean that I must decline your proposal," she answered, more firmly, "and request you to allow me to pass."

"But, Miss Wheaton—Nettie, you love me. Surely you would not let me so deceive myself. You love me! There is some bar, perhaps, to our marriage; but you love me."

"I am already betrothed," the girl said, desperately, not conscious of the interpretation her words admitted of until a third voice spoke.

"Consider yourself free, Miss Wheaton if you love this man," said Mr. Martin, stepping into the room. "Pardon my intrusion. I came unexpectidly to the city, and your aunt told me you were here. Mrs. Hunt kindly directed me to this room, where I find my coming most opportune. I have the honor to bid you good evening and farewell."

And, not seeing Nettie's piteous, pleading face, he turned and left the conservatory. A moment later Mrs Hunt was hurrying to the room, where Nettie had fallen senseless, overcome, the anxious, hostess said, by the heat and perfume of the flowers.

Aunt Mary was sitting up when the little white cloaked figure came in, and Nettie threw herself into the kind embrace, sobbing bitterly. She did not see a tall figure near the window, half hidden by the curtain as she sobbed out her story.

"And Alfred will never forgive me," she said, in conclusion. "I saw it in his face."

"Do you deserve that he should?" Aunt Mary asked, still holding the girl close in he arms.

"No, I ought never to have allowed the count to pay me so much attention. But it was a mere flirtation, auntie. He cares nothing for me, though Wheaton is a golden prize; and I never gave him a thought even of friendship. And I had tried to be good—I had, indeed. I meant to go back to Morton and help Alfred in evry good work. I meant to use my monney for charity, for useful aims only, and it is only my silly head that has drawn me into these last few weeks of frivolity and foolishness."

"Do you love Alfred, then;"

"Love Alfred! Aunt Mary, do you suppose I would have promised to marry him if I had not loved him.

"But when the count asked if you loved him, you only said you were betrothed."

"Do you suppose I would even mention Alfred to him!" Nettie asked indignantly.

"Then if Alfred would forgive you now, would you be quite happy?"

"If he really forgave me, knowing all my folly and my sincere penitence. Oh! auntie, to lose him now would drive me away from all I hoped to be. I could not go back to Wheaton and work as I had promised myself to work, if he turned coldly from me. I need his counsel, his protection—auntie, I need his love."

The tall figure came from the shadow of the window curtains, and in the eyes of the Rev. Alfred Martin there was a mist of tears as he bent over Aunt Mary's chair and took Nettie's hand.

"It was tearing my heart from my bosom to give you up, Nettie," he said, as she sprang up, with a cry of joyous surprise; "but you must make your choice now, darling. I cannot take my wife from such a scene as that I witnessed to-night.

"I am all yours if you forgive me," she said, humbly. "We will go back to Morton to-morrow, if you wish."

Aunt Mary discreetly left the room, but returning very soon, found Nettie alone, tearful but happy, sure of forgiveness, and very sure she would never again trifle with HEARTS JUST FOR AMUSEMENT.

RAILROAD AND TELEGRAPH VS. CROPS AND PRICES.

Mr. A. lives in Halifax Co.; and Mr. B. in Pasquotank. A, bought his farm a few years since and was obliged to go in debt $3000. B, bought his farm four years ago and incurred a debt of $2000. A. and B. met a few days since in the office of their commission merchant in Norfolk. A seemed well pleased with the condition of things generally, and his own circumstances in particular. B, was not well pleased with the situation, and was free to express an opinion that something was wrong, but what that something was he was not quite able to define He was "out of sorts" with G, his commission merchant, and seemed to reflect a good share of his ill will on what he was pleased to call his luck. After a friendly salutation, A began to banter B on his dejected and discouraged appearance. Well said B, if you should have such confounded bad luck as I have had for three or four years, you would not be quite so cheerful as you seem to be now. Says A, how is it you have so much bad luck. B. well there is something wrong somewhere and I am bound to find it out there is cheating somewhere—casting his eyes toward G, who was busily engaged writing at his desk. I'll tell you how it is. G wrote me a letter a week ago last Monday, saying that potatoes were worth $6 a barrel and advised me, if, I had any to sell to ship at once. The letter came down the next day, but the boat being a little late I did not get it until the next day, Wednesday. Well I thought the price pretty fair, and I would gather and ship all I had to spare as I wanted the money to pay up my interest, and help to work out my other crops; there was no boat the next day but we turned in and dug a hundred barrels and had them on the boat Friday morning. They got in here Saturday and G. sold them at $2 a barrel; and after paying the freight and expenses I have not got enough left to pay my interest, now past due. It haint paid me hardly for the seed and labor. The same thing happened last year. There is something wrong somewhere and I tell you I am bound to find it out. A. well I believe there is something wrong myself. I will give you my experience of the last two weeks, and it may help you to discover where the something wrong lies. The same morning that G wrote you he telegraphed me "Potatoes $6 per barrel would advise you to market at once." I got this dispatch within an hour after it left G's office. I liked the price and set all hands at work in the potatoe field and that evening I had fifty barrels on the cars, they were here the next morning; the next evening I sent forward fifty barrels more. The first lot brought $6 and the second $5,50 per bbl. I came in to-day to get my money; and have G's check in my pocket for $500. My crop of green peas this Spring brought me nearly $1000 and with that I paid off the last obligation against my farm and I am now free from debt. I have learned this friend B, that although the demand for all kind of produce is very great, yet the market is liable at times to be overstocked. So I instruct G, to keep me informed as to prices, and when the price suits I ship at once, and always get the tip top price of the market. B. well I shipped as soon as I could, and I don't see no sense in the market going down in so short a time.

A. Business is done quite different now from what it was when we were boys. The railroad and telegraph has changed the old system, and we are living under a new condition of things. I will tell you what I would do B; sell your lands and come to our county where we have a railroad and telegraph and see if your luck don't change.

B. I wouldn't give an acre of my land for three acres in your county. No sir I won't do that.

A. Well I will admit that your land is quite superior to ours, but while you are making one dollar from yours I can make five from mine. So I can't see the advantage of good soil unless you have the means to make it more profitable.

B. thought he had made a discovery and came off hoping that some kindly disposed people would come along and build a railroad near his farm—not across it, so that he might get some profit out of his potatoe field, and other crops.

THE JUDICIAL QUESTION.

In the last issue of the NORTH CAROLINIAN a correspondent pointed out in clear and forcible terms that the alteration made in this Judicial District was solely for the purpose of defeating the present Judge and Solicitor and electing Democrats in their places. The truth of this position would be sufficiently apparent from the single circumstance that the gerrymander was made only a few months before the election, but there are other significant facts which place the matter beyond all peradventure. The report was in circulation before the introduction of the bill. that MILLS L. EURE Esq was to be the Democratic candidate for judge. The bill itself was introduced by Mr. BALLARD of Gates, who is we hear his near kinsman and most ardent supporter. Nobody ever pretended that the public convenience required a change. On the contrary it is admitted on all hands that the district was much more convenient as it stood. Every lawyer must see at a glance that the rapid succession of the courts in the Counties of Currituck, Camden, Pasquotank and Perquimans besides being a waste of time and money, will work the grossest injustice to the debtor class, already struggling under a heavy burden. In Tyrrell and Dare both terms of court will be held in the fishing season when jurors and witnesses cannot attend except at a ruinous sacrifice of pecuniary interest. To the citizens of Hyde the judge at many times will be wholly inaccesible, so that in cases requiring dispatch, the law can afford no relief. These facts are so obvious that Hon. W. N. H. SMITH & other distinguished gentlemen though members of the opposite party, have we hear, condemned the gerrymander in severe and unqualified terms. The Democrats cannot urge as an excuse for such shameful conduct that either Judge ALBERTSON or Mr. BAGLEY, is incompetent or otherwise unfit for position. They are compelled to admit that we have never had better officers, and will not have better ones if their own candidates are elected. This confession then, humiliating as it is, is forced upon them that they have set at naught the wishes and the convenience of the people, disregarded the demands of justice and dragged the office of judge into the mire of party politics, with the single and exclusive object of satisfying their greed for office. It has been said that fools will learn in no school but that of experience. It seems that the Democratic party is too stupid to learn even in that. They violated all propriety by gerrymandering the first congressional district to defeat Hon. C. L. COBB, and the people rebuked them for the outrage by electing that gentleman by fifteen hundred majority. They gerrymandered the first Senatorial district to provide a place for Maj. YEATES and Mr. SKINNER, and the verdict of the people again covered them with shame and confusion. The citizens of this section will not be imposed upon by any set of men who know no law but their own interests; and common sense and experience alike should teach the opposition that their judicial ticket will be ingloriously beaten by the very means they have employed to elect it.

DEMOCRATIC TACTICS.

When those immaculate and conscientious gentlemen, the Southern Democrats, address themselves to white men they declare with a great show of virtuous indignation that Republicans are in favor of the Civil Rights Bill, and under its provisions they will be compelled to sit at the same tables, sleep in the same beds, lie in the same graves, and send their children to the same schools with the "dirty niggers." When they talk to colored men, they tell them in soft and insinuating tones that they have always been their friends, that the Radicals have never had any real regard for their welfare but have used them merely as hobbys upon which to ride into power, & that as an evidence of this, they now oppose the Civil Rights Bill: which is the very embodiment of good to all colored Ladies and Gentlemen whatsoever. It is by these artful tactics that they hope to catch votes from the credulous of both races, and obtain a taste of those golden apples of Office for which their mouths have watered Oh! how eagerly, for fourteen tantalizing years. In this however they will not succeed. It has grown into a proverb, that he who attempts to carry water or both shoulders at once, will inevitably spill it, and the truth of the saying will come home to the opposition on the day of election. The white men of North Carolina know the Democracy of old, and have learned to receive their statements cum grano salis. They remember that this party in 1860 called men traitors who opposed secession and asseverated that the dismemberment of the Union would not result in war: but that in less than six months afterwards, the country was convulsed in the throes of a terrible struggle, the blood of their children was incarnadining the ground and their fortunes were crumbling around them. They remember that this party in 1868 opposed the adoption of the new constitution, and said it would produce social equality: but they have seen the falsity of the assertion, and that all mixture of the races is prohibited by enactment of a Republican Legislature. They remember that this party for a long time denied the atrocities and even the existence of the Ku Klux Klan, but were finally compelled themselves to admit that a thousand horrible outrages had been committed in this State alone, and that thirty thousand of their voters were members of the Order. With such facts as these before them, facts which the Democracy cannot and dare not deny, it is not strange that when the honest white men of the Country hear them say that Republicans favor a mixture of the races they should be somewhat incredulous, and should make the inquiry, are these the men who deceived us before? ha! then we must watch them; for they are to be

> "—But trusted like the fox,
> Who, ne'er so tame, so cherished and > locked-up,
> Will have a wild trick of his ancestors."

As for the colored men they know well that they are indebted to the Republican party for their freedom, and all the civil and political rights which they now enjoy. They know well that the Democratic party has from first to last, exerted itself to the utmost to prevent the bestowal of these rights upon them, and would possibly take them away if they had the power. They are noted for gratitude and good memories, and all the the twaddle about Civil Rights will not avail to alienate them from the party which has proved, not by words, but by deeds that it is their friend. On the present issues of the day, nor on any others have we a wish to deceive them. We say frankly to them and to all men, that the Republican party is unalterably opposed to the Civil Rights Bill, if it means to enforce mixed schools and churches or anything tending towards social equality. We are opposed to it if that be the proper construction, because we believe that neither the white nor the colored people desire it, and that its passage would be highly detrimental to the interests of both. But we are in favor of such a law as will give to the colored man as good schools, as good hotels, as desirable privileges and accommodations everywhere, as the white man enjoys, when he pays the same amount of money. That is right and just, and whatever we believe to be so, we always espouse, regardless of consequences. If any other than the Democratic party should attempt to make capital with colored men, out of this position we would be greatly surprised. In that party of course we are surprised at nothing. We await with much complacency the time when they will see how completely their ignoble attempts to do so, have failed.

A CORRESPONDENCE

Celebration of the 4th of July in Edenton.

In accordance with previous arrangements Independence day was appropriately celebrated by the colored citizens of Edenton and the surrounding country.

The chief feature of the celebration was the parade of the young men's Debating Society and citizens generally who joined the processoin.

The procession was promptly formed at 1 o'clock at the public school house, on Freemason Street. The march was made down Broad Street to Gale, up Gale to Oakum Street, down Oakum to Church Street, thence to Broad Street and down Broad Street to the Court House, where the principal exercises of the day took place as follows:

Singing of a patriotic song; prayer by Elder Overton; reading of Declaration of Independence by W. R. Haughton; oration by John W. Draper; speaking by Messrs Bookrum and Overton; closing address by Peter K. Jones, chief marshall.

After the conclusion of the exercises the procession was again formed, and marched to the school house, where amid three rousing cheers for the Union and the Republican Party the celebration was proclaimed at an end.

The thanks of the society were voted to the Mayor, Hon. James N. Norfleet, and citizens of Edenton for the kindness and civility extended to its members.

We will conclude this account of the celebration of the 98th Anniversary of American Independence by stating that everything passed off pleasantly and all who joined in the exercises seemed animated by patriotic impulses.

An old army surgeon was very fond of perpetrating a joke on others, though very angry at being made the subject of one himself. At a dinner when the decanter passed freely and frequently, a brother officer said: "Doctor. I've got a letter from Capt. G——, and I'll wager you a dozen of old port that you can't guess in five guesses how he spells cat." "Done," said the Doctor "Commence guessing," said the officer. "K-a.double-tt." "No." "Kat-e." "No: try again." "Cat-e." "Missed again." "Ca-double-tt." "No; try again, it's your last chance." "C-a-g-h-t." "No," thundered the wag: "you've lost the wager." "How did he spell it, then?" inquired the Doctor, with great petulance. "Why, he spelled it c-a-t," replied the wag, with the utmost gravity, amid the roars of the mess. The Doctor sprang up choking with rage, exclaiming: "Gentlemen I am too old to be trifled with in this manner."

American clock making was commenced by Mr. Elias Terry, of Plymouth, Conn., in 1815. The wheels were whittled out with a knife. The running was regulated by a bag of sand, Mr. Terry used to complete two clock, and then start off on horseback for a market. He soon introduced brass movements, melting up old kettles, since brass was scarce Chauncey Jerome commenced the business in 1823: In 1829, a wooden clock cost $11; now a much better clock costs $1,50. The people laughed at Mr. Terry for making one hundred clocks all at once.

Mrs. Mary A. Livermore lectures and preaches nearly two hundred times a year, and ranks next to Gough in the number of her engagements

Rev. W. C. Bowman will soon begin the publication of a paper in Bakersville.

Many lose the opportunity of saying a kind thing by waiting to weigh the matter too long. Our best impulses are too delicate to endure much handling.

An interesting little boy, timid when left alone in a dark room, was overheard recently by his mother to say in his loneliness: "Oh, Lord, don't let any one hurt me, and I'll go to church next Sunday, and give you some money."

How the building and establishment of railroad lines open up a new country is very remarkably demonstrated by a comparison of the United States census of 1870 with the territorial census of 1873. This comparison shows us that between those years all the countries along the line of the Denver and Rio Grande Railroad have either trebled or quadrupled in assessed wealth and population. This speaks loudly in favor of the railroads.

A CARD.

THE 1st JUDICIAL DISTRICT.

REPLY TO "C." BY M. L. EURE.

MR. EDITOR:—In your paper of the 8th of July, you publish a communication headed "The Jerrymander of the 1st Judicial District." This partisan communication is written by some mendacious demagogue and sneak who conceals his real name from the public and signs himself "C." I do not know positively who C is; but a careful reading of his production has made the impression on my mind that he is most deeply interested privately in the subject matter about which he writes. As the communication is calculated and, doubtless, intended to create a prejudice against me in the minds of the voters of the 1st Judicial District, I beg the kindness of you to publish this reply to it. And in making my reply I ask pardon of my constituents of the District as I had promised myself to make no speeches, nor write any letters for publication during this campaign, except it should become necessary, as in the present case, to vindicate my own honor and to blunt the poisoned fangs of falsehood. "C" begins his communication by a reference to and a quotation from, "A solemn protest of the bar of North Carolina against Judicial interference in political affairs," published in the year 1869; and while he admits the correctness of the principle enunciated therein, I am sure that his name is not among the long list of distinguished lawyers and honorable gentlemen whose names are appended thereto. My name is to that protest and by placing it there I show beyond all question that, in 1869, I was unalterably opposed to judicial interference in political affairs. And the intimation or assertion by "C", that I and the other signers of that protest "have lost that veneration for elementary virtue" is absolutely untrue. How are the facts in regard to myself? On the 28th day of May last I was nominated a candidate for the office of Judge of the 1st District. In accepting the nomination I stated that, if elected, I could not and would not serve any party or be controlled by any party bias or political influence in the discharge of the duties of the office: and that if a person subject to such influence be desired, I should feel it my duty to decline the nomination. This sentiment, thus expressed, was heartily applauded by the large and intelligent Convention which gave the nomination to me. And in this connection I am happy to be able to state that I have among my supporters, in nearly every county of the District, prominent Republicans who believe and know that, if elected, I will administer the duties of the office with impartial justice, free from all political influence. Thus it will be seen that I still hold to the faith declared in 1869, of eternal opposition to judicial interference in political affairs; and I have no desire to survive the period when I shall be capable of acting otherwise.

But "C" insists that the Act of the Legislature of 1873-4, which placed the counties of Tyrrell and Hyde in the 1st District, and the counties of Hertford, Bertie and Northampton in other Districts, was a great outrage upon the people and makes the office of Judge political. Is there one particle of truth in his assertion?

In my opinion there is not. It will not be pretended that the territorial increase or diminution of the District alone will make the Judge corrupt or subject to political bias. Other causes produce this effect; to wit:—A depraved nature. When the county of Northampton, but two years ago was taken from the sixth District and placed in the 1st District by Act of the Legislature, the present incumbent and no other person, so far as I am informed, ever complained that it would corrupt the judge or make his office political. Nor was there a hue and cry raised against the Legislature that it had outraged the people, and introduced politics into judicial proceedings. Who has complained of the late Act of the Legislature? Who has felt oppressed? If you will read the proceedings of some political meetings held in the Town of Hertford, you will find that some shrieks of agony and doleful lamentations of oppresion produced by this Legislative Act have been uttered. In other localities you have scarcely heard a murmer. Hertford is the home of the present incumbent, and possibly the home of "C." The present incumbent is a candidate for the office of Judge, "C" is the initial letter for Candidate, and "C" says the object of the Act was to defeat the present incumbent. So it is fair to presume that the shrieks and lamentations were uttered in deference to the present incumbent.

But "C" proceeds to give some reasons why the Act; in his profane language, is "damnable." First, he states the great distance of Gatesville from Swan Quarter, the two most remote points in the present District. And in making this statement, like most of his other statements, it seems impossible for him to refrain from uttering a falsehood. He states the distance from Plymouth to Swan Quarter to be ninety miles. If the sign boards which indicate the distance between these two latter points be correct, the distance is only sixty-five or sixty-six miles, by the most direct way of travel. But of this falsehood I am not much disposed to complain; since he comes within twenty-five miles of the truth, which is much nearer, I presume, than he usually gets. He says furthermore, that in cases of emergency, applications for injunctions, for instance: that the parties would have a long route to get to the judge. Well, how stood this before the District was changed? Suppose the Judge had lived in the county of Northampton, and some person living on the sea coast below Roanoka Island had desired to get an injunction. What route would he have to travel and by what conveyance. In his schooner or small boat up the Albemarle Sound he might with the utmost dispatch make the trip and return in eight days; oftener, however, it would take twelve or fifteen. But suppose he were to attempt the trip by sea. He would go out at Oregon or Ocracoke with the expectation of entering at Fortress Monroe; possibly get caught in a storm, be driven over to Liverpool, and be more than sixty days in procuring his injunction. But the trip from Swans Quarter to Gatesville is quickly and easily made. Leave Swan Quarter in the morning on Monday, Wednesday or Friday drive to Plymouth by night, then take the Black Water Steamer and be at Gatesville at 1 o'clock the same night. However, in regard to the great distance to be traveled to reach the counties of the District, I request "C" to inform the present incumbent that if he is unwilling to bear the fatigue of riding the circuits of the District, I accepted the nomination with a full knowledge of the difficulties attending the position and will in a spirit of charity and kindness, try to relieve him of some portion of his burden.

That my reply to the next charge made directly against me in "C's" communication may be clearly understood I will quote his language He says "The bill was introduced by Mr. Ballard of Gates a near relative of the most prominant democrat of that county and by a singular coincidence now the Democratic candidate for judge in this district. These facts are proofs if any were needed of the origin of the bill." The wife of Mr. Ballard who has been dead some years was a relative of mine, Mr. Ballard is not, and I am the candidate for Judge in the District; and if the charge made above, that I had originated a bill in the Legislature for my own selfish, personal interest were true, I should feel badly; yet in this instance I can happily say:

"What stronger breastplate than a heart untainted,
Thrice is he armed who hath his quarrel just,
And he but naked, though lock'd up in steel,
Whose conscience with injustice is corrupted."

I here declare that Mr. Ballard in the introduction of the bill in reference to the 1st Judicial District acted entirely without any solicitation on my part or knowledge that he would introduce the bill. I had no correspondence with him on the subject before or after the introduction of the bill, and if he was prompted in any way to favor me, he did so without any knowledge or procurement from me or any other person at my request. I had no connection with the matter in any manner or form, either in originating or perfecting it. And every assertion and intimation made by "C" to the contrary are vile calumnies and disgusting falsehoods. And if the miserable cowardly wretch would unmask himself I should be tempted to call him liar in his teeth; were I not restrained by my respect for any official position he may chance to fill. I did not expect to be the nominee for Judge nor did I seek it. And notwithstanding my nomination was made by acclamation there is not one person in this entire District who can say that I asked him to go to the Convention at Edenton and vote for my nomination.

"C" further asserts that the change of the District "has put the office of Judge into market for sale." This assertion is also false. But the knowledge on the part of the Legislature that "C" or some one for whom he writes has been or can be bought; "and the desire on the part of the Legislature to prevent 'C' from selling himself, or to express their disapproval of the sale of himself, may have been the strongest motives with the Legislature to pass the Act. And in so doing they have done a patriotic act and are entitled to the highest commendation of their constituents.

"C" next indulges in some miserable twaddle about some leaders procuring judgements for rich clients, the inconvenience of a third term as he terms it, and the vengeance of the Legislature, &c. This appeal to prejudice & attempt to array our debtor & creditor classes, each against the other, is the natural production of a depraved mind, and an infamously corrupt heart, both of which, I think, "C" possesses. The facts are, as I have them upon information, no judgements were rendered at the June term of Currituck Court, and that after the first Court to be held in the new District, the Courts will be held as heretofore, two terms each year, about six months apart.

From all that "C" states in his communication, the conclusion is irresistable that if he be a judge he is capable of being influenced by party and politics in the administration of justice as may best serve his interest. If policy require him to act fairly and impartially he may do so, but if policy require a contrary course he is eager to sieze the opportunity to act mean and corruptly in the discharge of official duties.

In regard to the Act of the Legislature and the propriety of its passage, I will state that in my opinion, it is clearly justifiable for the wisest and best of reasons, but to state them at length now would consume too much of your space and is foreign to any purpose suffice it to say, the representatives of the people from the District who voted for it have been approved by their constituents; and if the people are satisfied; the rage and petulance of "C" at the Act, simply because he may lose the salary of his office is criminal selfishness. In my opinion, the interest which he manifests in the matter, and the sole consideration which prompted his communication, is his sacred regard for the salary of the office: And will the time never come when some people will cease to believe that all the offices in the country were intended expressly for them.

In conclusion I will state to the voters of both political parties who are supporting me that our prospect for success, in this effort to preserve the judiciary in its purity, is bright. The victory is well nigh won. Judicial integrity, free from political influences and the selfish cravings of office, shall triumph, and with the unerring guidance of Heaven to bless us, we will transmit it pure and spotless to our children and our children's children. And to the voters of the District who do not support me, I desire to say, that I shall bear no malice toward them; and never wreak vengence upon them.

THE DAILY GRAPHIC

The only Illustrated Daily Newspaper in the World.

With its issue for March 4, 1874, THE DAILY GRAPHIC entered upon the second year of a career phenomenal in the history of journalism. Its story of a twelvemonths' has been a steady and unquestioned growth in popular acceptance as the most original, artistically luxurious, and wonderfully comprehensive metropolitan journal ever published in the United States.

As a brilliant novelty, the whole country has confessed its unique attraction; as a practical and marvellously complete Newspaper, it has become a daily necessity to the social and mercantile interests of one of the largest permanent constituencies ever attained by a journalistic enterprise in the same period, while its great specialty, beyond all actuality or hope of competition, as has been the wonder, delight, and new education of individuals and homes in every State of the Union. In the very idea of such utilization of the finest pictorial art, for every day's information and reflection, there is all the charm of a romance; and the realization of that idea, made visible in THE DAILY GRAPHIC, is a practical and ever-varying assimilation of the most fascinating Ornament with the commonest Use which never palls upon even the most pampered taste. From the first issue the successive multitude of its pictures has been a perfect study of mechanical and journalistic development; the inevitable early imperfections of artists and others, not yet thoroughly trained in the new process, disappearing steadily in an as steadily increasing accuracy and beauty of artistic effects. Indeed this very illustration, from day to day, of the Time's spirit of progress in Art, as well as in Events has been an added and piquant interest, which is yet to be maintained for the public by unending future Graphic improvements. Scarcely more, however, for its beautiful portraits, trenchant cartoons, vivid news-etching, and unequalled reproductions of the world's choicest works of art, than for its unrivalled attractions as

A SUPERB PICTORIAL MIRROR OF
DAILY HISTORY,

NORTH CAROLINIAN

WEDNESDAY, JULY 15, 1874.

☞TO NORTHERN VISITORS.☜

Elizabeth City is 50 miles South East of Norfolk, Va. Parties coming here from the North should take passage on the Bay line steamers which leave Baltimore at 4 P. M. every evening, and arrive at Portsmouth the next morning in time to connect with the Elizabeth City Steamers.

☞WEEK' S ADVERTISEMENTS.☜

Local and Personal.

☞Let Republicans remember that every vote cast for RANSOM, is a vote cast for YEATES.

☞Let the people who opposed Greeley and his social equality views, remember how Major Yeates voted in 1872, and beware of him now.

☞Let the people of Currituck and Dare remember who gave them light houses and life saving stations, and vote for C. L. COBB.

☞Why don't the Democrats publish the whole of Mr. Greeley's speech at Poughkeepsie, and tell the people that YEATES and all the rest of their candidates voted for the man who made it?

☞In view of the fact that the Democrats voted for GREELEY, who advocated mixed schools, and now oppose the Civil Rights Bill, it may be well to inquire if a man may not opposed the bill and still be in favor of the mixed schools.

☞The news from every county in the District is encouraging in the extreme. If RANSOM remains in the field COBB's majority will be 1,000. If he withdraws, COBB's majority will be from 1500 to 2000.

☞Some men are so stupid as not to be able to distinguish the arraignment of a party for its public acts from peasonal abuse of its candidates; in which latter element they are accustomed to live and move and have their little being. They are entitled to, and receive our pity and contempt.

☞The Democrats cry out with agony when reminded that they voted for Greeley who was surely in favor of the provisions of the Civil Rights Bill, if their construction of it be correct. They find that the supposed tight shoe they had prepared for Republicans, has got on their own foot, and pinches it almost to cold endurance.

☞MAJOR YEATES and most of the other Loco-foco candidates cannot deny, that they voted for Greeley well knowing his position on the subject of mixed schools. Did they vote for him because they endorsed that doctrine, or did they vote for him at a sacrifice of principle in the hope of obtaining OFFICE under him for themselves and party friends?

☞Mr. BURROOF of Plymouth was severely wounded in the foot last week, by the accidental discharge of a gun in the hands of a companion.

☞The arrival and departure of nearly 60 steamers, and other vessels, at this port, in one week, is a fair indication of the progress of our growing trade.

☞The Dwelling house and several out buildings of James Leigh Esq. were burned last Sunday night. We have received no information as to the origin of the fire.

☞We regret to learn that JOHN HASTEAD Esq., the Republican candidate for the Legislature in Camden Co., was thrown from his buggy on the 8th inst., and had his shoulder dislocated.

☞If any town in North Carolina can boast of prettier girls than ours, we dont want to go there. We have made up our mind to be an old bachelor, and have no disposition to subject our resolution to a harder strain than it bears at home.

☞Reports come in from all parts of the district that the crops are in a highly flourishing condition. If nothing untoward happens it is probable that our farmers will be able in a few months to indulge in the luxury of a ten cent cigar on Sundays, without any apprehensions that such extravagance will bring them to the alms house.

☞There are certain men who never believe anything except upon evidence simply irresistible. They hang a doubt upon every peg that reason furnishes, and then manufacture new pegs from which to suspend others both ridiculous and numerous. Should any one take the trouble to point this class to the work just commenced on the railroad, and assure them it will eventually be completed, his only reward would be an incredulous smile. Their skepticism will never depart till they hear the sound of the whistle, see the engine on the track, and feel the wheels run over their toes.

☞By reference to page 296 of the House Journal for 1873-'74, it will be seen that during the discussion on the Civil Rights Bill in the Legislature. Mr. WILLIAMSON, the Republican member from Franklin introduced a resolution, that "our Senators be instructed and our Representatives requested, to vote for such a bill as will secure equal, civil and political Rights, and against all bills tending to an enforcement of Social Equality." Every Democratic member voted against the resolution. The Republicans both white and colored voted for it. This was what we expected. The men who supported GREELEY and the mixed school platform, might very consistently refuse to protest against social equality, but after having done so, to throw that monstrosity in the teeth of Republicans as a reproach, is to act like a rascal who steals a sheep, and then turns up his eyes in holy horror, and charges the theft on an honest man.

☞The sad news has just been received that Gov ernor CALDWELL is dead. We will make some allusion to his life and services in our next issue.

☞It is predicted by certain Astronomers that the tail of the Comet will shortly inpinge upon our earth and consume it with fervent heat. No doubt there are many Christains who would grumble if the world were destroyed in any such heterodox way.

☞Dr. JOHN has continued too ill to attend to any business or perform any editorial labor this week. We are glad to announce, however, that his symptoms to day are very much better, and now think he will be able to resume his post of duty in a few days.

☞The cannon of the "Old Dominion" Company's Steamer "goes off" on coming into port, while the "Cannon" of the "Pioneer Line" does not "go off" until she is discharged. Curious aint it? And they both are well loaded too, with something more than powder.

☞The "Card" of M. L. EURE Esq. was placed in our hands in the form of a communication. Its publication was refused because of its personal allusions, and because both the present writer and Dr. John as far as his illness would permit him to examine it, disapproved it thoroughly. Mr. EURE then ordered it to be put in as an advertisement and he pays for it as such.

☞We publish elsewhere a list of appointments for Hon. C. L. COBB. Previous to this time his health would not admit of his entering into the canvass. He takes the field with the most brilliant public record of any man of his age in the State, with the prestige of former victories, and the most flattering prospects of success in the present. contest.

☞Since the article on the "Judicial Question" was in type Mr. EURE has told us that we were misinformed as to his being related to Mr. BALLARD, and that he had no part in framing or procuring the passage of the bill gerrymandering this Judicial District. We gladly give place to his statement, as it is our earnest wish not to do any one injustice. That discreditable business should be laid at the door of those who are justly chargeable with it.

☞The Steamer Wm. Gates brought down from Norfolk, yesterday, the first shipment of wheelbarrows, tools and other material. consigned to Sydney G. Miller contractor, for working on the railroad. The Company's books stationary &c., and the engineers instruments arrived several days since. We understand that a strong force of hands is now employed between Knobbs Creek and the river, clearing the swamp and preparing the ground for the commencement of grading; and that more men are wanted

☞We surprised a youthful couple on Long Bridge the other night, who upon seeing us nervously volunteered the information that they were out in search of the comet. That may be true, but it does not sufficiently account for the fact that when our proximity was discovered, the lady uttered a faint scream, and the gentleman hastily shifted the position of his arm. Until these interesting phenomena are better explained, we cannot avoid suspecting that "thereby hangs a tale."

☞A gentleman who was present, informs us that AUGUSTUS M. MOORE, Esq., of Edenton, delivered a speech in this place to about seventy-five Democrats and three Republicans on Saturday evening. While Mr. MOORE is in such high favor with the other side, we hope he will address Democratic audiences all over the District. His eloquence may now prove more effectual than another man's, in convincing them of the error of their ways, and may serve to induce many of them to vote against YEATES for congress.

☞J. P. OVERMAN, ELIHU A. WHITE, T. R. JERNIGAN and W. B. SHAW, candidates for the Senate, will address the people at the following times and places:

Jas. Bunche's Chowan Co	Fri. July	17
Belvidere Perquimans Co.,	Mond "	20
New Hope, "	Tues. "	21
Mt. Hermon Pasquotank "	Thurs. "	23

Old Trap, "	Wed. "	29
Indian Ridge, Currituck,	Thurs. "	30
Shingle Landing, "	Sat. Aug.	1

☞The communication from Camden giving an account of the discussion between the candidates for Solicitor at Old Trap, was unavoidably crowded out, We quote a part of it: "Mr. WHEDBEE speaks well for a young man, but is far from being a match for his competitor. The latter got the better of him at every point in the argument I heartily wished during the whole of the speeches, that every Democrat in the district had been present to hear them." Mr. BAGLEY is an able speaker, and would be an ornament to any party. He is scholarly logical and eloquent. He has made a faithful officer and we believe the people will endorse him at the polls.

DEATHS.

DIED.—At his residence in Camden County on July the 9th, MILES LAMB aged 77 years after a protracted illness,

A BRILLIANT RECORD OF CURES.—An American humorist tells us that it would have been money in his pocket if he had been born without a stomach, and then proceeds to figure up the cost of a chronic dyspepsia, to which he is a martyr, and which he says it is impossible to cure. On this point, "Josh Billings, (for he is the party referred to) is mistaken. Unless his stomach differs from all other dyspeptic stomachs. Hostetter's Bitters will cure him in less than three months. This it would be safe to guarantee under any penalty. There are a few, a very few, actual specifics for disease in existence, and Hostetter's Stomach Bitters may be set down as one of them. In cases of indigestion it never fails persons who had suffered for many years almost every conceivable species of torture from this agonizing complaint, have been permanently cured with the Bitters in six weeks. Hundreds of such instances are on record, authenticated by the testimony of prominent men in every walk of life, eminent physicians among the number. But this celebrated vegetable preparation is something more than a stomachic and tonic. It is also an alterative of wonderful virtue. In liver complaint its effect is as direct and immediate as that of calomel or blue pill, and far more salutary and in all diseased conditions of the bowels, notably in cases of constipation, its regulating properties are in the highest degree serviceable. The new settlements in the west and all low-lying tracts of country infested with miasmatic exhalations, so fruitful at this season of the various types of intermittent fevers, should be always well stocked with this incomparable remedy which will cure any case of fever and ague in a period varying from three days to three or four weeks, according to the violence of the complaint. Nervous disorders which are always aggravated by the adulterated liquors usually prescribed by physicians, are readily relieved by a course of this admirable combination medicine in which the properties of a stimulant, a tonic and alterative are happily blended.

The Saturday Evening Post.

The Oldest and Best Story Paper Published.

Founded August 4th, A. D. 1821.

For more than half century the SATURDAY EVENING POST has been the

of the Country, and has ever born a widespread and unblemished reputation for the unsurpassed purity, refinement and excellence of the Serials, Sketches and Miscellaneous reading matter.

It is pre-eminently

that is published in this county, from its never containing anything that would offend the feelings of any one, either in a religious or political sense, or that could not be read at any fireside without objection from the most fastidious.

The circulation of the Saturday Evening Post, though not quite so large perhaps, as its younger contemporaries, is not, like that of some of them, fluctuating, and too often short lived, but based upon the intrinsic merit of the paper itself, and not dependent on any extraneous influences, such as the popularity of individual writers, &c.

Good, however, as the Saturday Evening Post has been in the past, it is our intention to make it still better in the future, and with this object in view we will effect a marked improvement in every department of the paper and will call to our assistance writers of admitted ability and known reputation.

By increasing its former attractions, and adding many judicious and pleasing novelties by studying how to please and cultivate the popular taste, by increasing industry and enterprise, and by enlarged facilities, we hope to make new friends with each and every issue, and continue to maintain the claim of the Saturday Evening Post to its title of The Oldest and the Best of Family Story Papers.

TWO AMERICAN MAGAZINES.—The excellence of AMERICAN MAGAZINES has become so well recognized abroad that one of the leading English Papers, the LONDON WEEKLY REGISTER, in a recent issue, thus speaks of SCRIBNER MONTHLY.

"We are constrained to own that SCRIBNER'S MONTHLY carries off the prize against all shilling monthly serials for brilliancy of illustrations and variety of contents. It is simply a wonderful shilling's worth. Nothing can be more charming than the cuts,—full of force and vigor; the light and shade are managed with a truly artistic power. Out of its one and twenty original articles, we really do not know which to choose as best, for each and all are excellent."

Not only is it true that Scribner's Monthly excels the English Magazine, but it is "The Best of the American Monthlies."

In the extent, variety and artistic excellence of its illustration of American themes, it has never been even approached, much less excelled. It has a large page and gives a greater variety in its contents than any other of the Standard American Monthlies.

In literary character, and in the brilliancy and ability of its Editorial Department, it enjoys an equal preeminence.

Its conductors started with the definite aim of making it the best magazine in the world, of which they have for a moment lost sight, and they point with pride and pleasure to the May and June numbers, recently issued and ask for them a candid examination and a careful comparison of their merits with those of other magazines; and they renew their pledge to the public, to strive for still higher excellence in the future.

A considerable demand has recently arisen in England for Sir. Nicholas, Scribner's New magazine for boys and girls, one publisher desiring to secure an edition of three thousand of first bound volume (when completed) with his imprint.

The success of St. Nicholas in this country has been even more remarkable than that of Scribner's Monthly. It is pronounced to be "an ideally perfect Magazine for children" and, as is the case with all the best literature for children, it has been found to possess surpassing interest for grown-up readers, as well. The influence of the periodicals of the day can scarcely be estimated, especially upon the rising generation. Parents and teachers cannot afford to be indifferent to this influence, or careless in relation to the character of the literature furnished to the children outside of their school lessons. In St. Nicholas not only are History, Natural Philosophy, Literature, Fine Arts, and Manufactures presented in an attractive way to young readers, but the children are stimulated to seek information for themselves.

The Publishers will send to any address a specimen number of St. Nicholas, postage prepaid, on receipt of ten cents, the bare cost of paper and printing. The magazines are sold by all first-class Booksellers and Newsdealers, everywhere.

The Eucalyptus.

The Blue Gum tree (Eucalyptus globulus) which is exciting a good deal of attention among agriculturists in Europe, is a native of Australia and a member of the Myrtle family (Myrtaceæ). It was introduced into Algeria eleven years ago and during the last seven years, extensive plantations have been cultivated in that country. It flourishes luxuriantly in its new habitat, and trees of only seven year's growth from the seed have reached an average height af 50 feet, although nourished by very poor soil. It is an evergreen tree, with a straight stem, crowned at the summit with spreading bushes, bearing willow like leaves. In their native forest these trees often rise to the hight of 200 feet, with their shafts clear of branches for from 100 to 200 feet, and resembling so many elegant columns irregularly scattered about, and intercepting the view at the distance of a hundred yards.

These Eucalyptic groves are especially grateful on the barren plains of Barbary. By their growth marshy lands are drained, and sun-baked spots are shadowed and provided with moisture. Their blossoms are filled with honey, which attracts multitudes of insects; and they in turn invite the birds, who find not only abundance of food, but the warmth of leafy coverts in winter, and shelter from the fierce heat of the sun in summer. The trees exhale a fragrance which is described as delightfully resinous and pungent. They are said to possess also various medicinal virtues.

Baths in a decoction of the leaves and branches are said to remove rheumatic pains, and neuralgia, and to promote recovery from the debility left by the malaria incidental to the country. There is no dought that the tree has properties which give it efficiency in cases of fever. Its bark yields tannin. and also an oil which is serviceable in the arts. Attemps have been made to cultivate the tree in England. A plant seven years old, in the garden of the Royal Botanical Society, has attained a height of 15 feet. But it is thought that, except in the extreme south or west of the island, the tree will not endure the low temperature of the ordinary English winter.

The Eucalyptus is allied to the Pomegranate; the Guava tree; the Coryophyllus aromaticus, whose dried flowerbuds are the cloves of commerce; the Pimento, whose berries are known under the name of allspice; and the Aki, or Lignum-Vitae, of New Zealand. The entire Myrtle family, numbering about 300 species, are natives of tropical countries, in the New and Old World.

Speed in Oxen.

It is a matter of great surprise that so little attention is paid to the quality of speed in working oxen. Our agricultural fairs have been very generally turned into mere horse races in the rage for fast roadsters. Speed in horseflesh is, to a large extent, the mania of the day. Good draught horses; sound, steady workers of fine form and powers of endurance, have had to stand aside and let the trotters occupy public attention.

But we have scarcely ever seen the importance of cultivating quickness of movement in working oxen alluded to. And yet there are farmers who will follow a yoke of oxen around a field, ploughing, or drawing loads at a snail's pace, now and then applying the gad with a shout of "go-along," but making scarcely more than half a dozen rounds of a ten acre lot in the course of a day. Oxen are proverpially slow, but they are capable of improvement in this respect as well as other animals, and more attention ought to be paid to cultivating in them a quick step. In Oriental countries, especially in India, they are used extensively for the road, in place of horses, and they may often be seen trotting off at a sparkling gait. We do not need trotting oxen, but a fast walk is of great importance. Doubling their speed would double their value as working cattle.

Why may not our agricultural societies offer prizes for the fastest walking oxen as well as the fastest horses? It would take some years to rear a race of good walkers, but it is worth an effort, and worthy of encouragement from our agricultural societies. One of the strongest objections to the use of oxen on the farm, is that they are so slow. This objection can be and ought to be removed.

Destroying Cockroaches

Take dry red lead; mix with thin molasses to consistency of thin cream; then then take pieces of glass and broken plates &c; spread it on about as thick as thin window glass. Where roaches are very numerous, give them plenty of it I think the general failure with roach poison is this—the poison act so quickly in sickening the roaches that they will not eat enough of it to kill them, for they are slow eaters. The red lead being slow in its effect on them they will get a good quantity into them before it will sicken them. I have noticed when any of them should happen to be trampled upon, it would appear that they were entirely filled with red lead. Place the lead where the roaches can get at it most conveniently. If the lead should become too dry and hard, mix a little more lead and molasses with the old to freshen it up again, and place it in other places. —Selected.

Kitchen Slops.

I cannot see the use of a slop-sink or cesspool on a farm—I have never seen one, or I might perhaps comprehend its use. Let me state to your readers what we do with our kitchen slops. A tub made of an old barrel is put in a warm place, into wheih all the refuse of the kitchen. [bones excepted, which are burned and broken for poultry,] is cast-skim milk, buttermilk. soapsuds, dish wate, etc. All this is very greedily devoured by the pigs, and in this way is used to good advantage as well as profit. Hogs must have water; they want salt, they want animal alkaline matter. All these are contained in the refuse, and in this way are fed to your hogs, while otherwise they would be lost, and not only lost but cause an annoyance.—Country Gentleman.

A small boy approached the great showman, Barnum, in Montpelier, the other day, and asked him what he would give for a cherry colored cat. "Ten dollars," replied Barnum, "if it is really cherry colored." Soon the boy returned to Barnum's hotel and unloaded a black cat at Barnum's feet. The shoman saw the point, and paid the youngster $10 with the remark, "Boy you've stolen my trade"

Dr. J. Walker's California Vinegar Bitters are a purely Vegetable preparation, made chiefly from the native herbs found on the lower ranges of the Sierra Nevada mountains of California. the medicinal properties of which are extracted therefrom without the use of Alcohol. The question is almost daily asked, "What is the cause of the unparalelled success of Vinegar Bitters?" Our answer is, that they remove the cause of disease, and the patient recovers his health. They are the great blood purifier and a life-giving principle, a perfect Renovator and Invigorator of the system. Never before in the history of the world has a medicine been compounded possessing the remarkable qualities of Vinegar Bitters in healing the sick of every disease man is heir to. They are a gentle Purgative as well as a Tonic, relieving Congestion or Inflammation of the Liver and Visceral Organs, in Bilious Diseases.

If men will enjoy good health, let them use Vinegar Bitters as a medicine, and avoid the use of alcoholic stimulants in every form.

No Person can take these Bitters according to directions, and remain long unwell, provided their bones are not destroyed by mineral poison or other means, and vital organs wasted beyond repair.

Grateful Thousands proclaim Vinegar Bitters the most wonderful Invigorant that ever sustained the sinking system.

Bilious, Remittent, and Intermittent Fevers, which are so prevalent in the valleys of our great rivers throughout the United States, especially those of the Mississippi, Ohio, Missouri, Illinois, Tennessee, Cumberland, Arkansas, Red, Colorado, Brazos, Rio Grande, Pearl, Alabama, Mobile, Savannah, Roanoke, James, and many others, with their vast tributaries, throughout our entire country during the Summer and Autumn, and remarkably so during seasons of unusual heat and dryness, are invariably accompanied by extensive derangements of the stomach and liver, and other abdominal viscera. In their treatment, a purgative, exerting a powerful influence upon these various organs, is essentially necessary. There is no cathartic for the purpose equal to Dr. J. Walker's Vinegar Bitters, as they will speedily remove the dark-colored viscid matter with which the bowels are loaded, at the same time stimulating the secretions of the liver, and generally restoring the healthy functions of the digestive organs.

Dyspepsia or Indigestion, Headache, Pain in the Shoulders, Coughs, Tightness of the Chest, Dizziness, Sour Eructations of the Stomach, Bad Taste in the Mouth, Bilious Attacks, Palpitation of the Heart, Inflammation of the Lungs, Pain in the region of the Kidneys, and a hundred other painful symptoms, are the offsprings of Dyspepsia. One bottle will prove a better guarantee of its merits than a lengthy advertisement.

Scrofula, or King's Evil, White Swellings, Ulcers, Erysipelas, Swelled Neck, Goitre, Scrofulous Inflammations, Indolent Inflammations, Mercurial Affections, Old Sores, Eruptions of the Skin, Sore Eyes, etc., etc. In these, as in all other constitutional Diseases, Walker's Vinegar Bitters have shown their great curative powers in the most obstinate and intractable cases.

For Inflammatory and Chronic Rheumatism, Gout, Bilious, Remittent and Intermittent Fevers, Diseases of the Blood, Liver, Kidneys, and Bladder, these Bitters have no equal. Such Diseases are caused by Vitiated Blood.

Mechanical Diseases.—Persons engaged in Paints and Minerals, such as Plumbers, Type-setters, Gold-beaters, and Miners, as they advance in life, are subject to paralysis of the Bowels. To guard against this, take a dose of Walker's Vinegar Bitters occasionally.

For Skin Diseases, Eruptions, Tetter, Salt Rheum, Blotches, Spots, Pimples, Pustules, Boils, Carbuncles, Ringworms, Scald Head, Sore Eyes, Erysipelas, Itch, Scurfs, Discolorations of the Skin, Humors and Diseases of the Skin of whatever name or nature, are literally dug up and carried out of the system in a short time by the use of these Bitters.

Pin, Tape, and other Worms, lurking in the system of so many thousands, are effectually destroyed and removed. No system of medicine, no vermifuges, no anthelminitics, will free the system from worms like these Bitters.

For Female Complaints, in young or old, married or single, at the dawn of womanhood or the turn of life, these Tonic Bitters display so decided an influence that improvement is soon perceptible.

Jaundice.—In all cases of jaundice, rest assured that your liver is not doing its work. The only sensible treatment is to promote the secretion of the bile and favor its removal. For this purpose use Vinegar Bitters.

Cleanse the Vitiated Blood whenever you find its impurities bursting through the skin in Pimples, Eruptions, or Sores; cleanse it when you find it obstructed and sluggish in the veins; cleanse it when it is foul; your feelings will tell you when. Keep the blood pure, and the health of the system will follow.

NORTH CAROLINA LANDS,

FOR SALE BY

GEORGE D. POOL.

Real Estate Agent,

ELIZABETH CITY, N. C.

In presenting my list of lands and other properties for sale, I would say that no section of the United States offers such inducements for capitalisis and emigrants, as this section of North Carolina. In longevity and healthfulness, it will compare favorably with any where; and in easy and cheap transportation of products to market, in pleasantness of climate, in the socialibility of the people, in great fertility and durability of soil, no section can equal it.

A railroad will soon be built from Norfolk, putting this place in direct communication by Rail, with the whole United States. This, together with our great fishing. farming and manufacturing interests, and certain early completion of already projected works of improvement for putting in nearer, cheaper and easier communication with the Ocean, will render this one of the most important commercial, and manufacturing points on the Southern country.

A desirable house and lot in the town of Elizabeth City on the corner of two principal streets, the principal one, and situated in the best business locality in the town. The lot contains about two acres of la id, and the buildings consist of a fair dwelling three stories high, containing eight rooms, all in good order, another two story building with four rooms and pantries, dairy, smokehouses, stables, &c. The dwelling has a good cellar under it. There is room on the front lot to erect two good stores, and they would occupy the best stand in the town for merchandize.

A farm of 700 acres in Pasquotank County 10 miles from town, with fine two story dwelling, large barn, kitchen and other outhouses; as also, two other dwellings. barns and other houses at different points on the farm. This farm is all cleared but 150 acres, is free from swamps and other waste land, and is well adapted to raising corn, wheat, cotton, oats, &c. The price is 14,000 in easy payments.

A farm of 500 acres in Pasquotank County, 6 miles from town, and one mile from the River, with good new dwelling built in modern style, barn, stables, four tenant houses scattered over the farm, fine water, &c. This farm is situated on the most public road in the County, has 300 acres cleared and balance in splendid pine, oak, cypress, maple, sweet gum, and other valuable timber. It is peculiarly adapted to raising cotton, $50 per acre, net, having been realized on a part of it this year in cotton. It also grows corn, wheat, oats, and other crops well. Price $12,000 in easy payments.

Two tracts of land lying on Pasquotank River four miles from town, neatly cleared, and in good cultivation, one contains 1,000 acres, and the other 600 acres. Both have good fisheries. and the land is equal to any in this section. Price $20.00 per acre in easy payments. Also several smaller tracts for sale, ranging from 50 to 100 acres each, at low prices, and on easy terms.

Also two fine farms in Pasquotank county, 10 miles from E. City, within half mile of church. school house and post office. One tract contains about 400 acres, with fair buildings and mostly cleared, and the other contains 300 acres, with good two story dwelling, large barn, and other outhouses, both are offered at $20 per acre, one third cash, balance in one and two years.

Three farms—one of 100 acres, one of 80 acres and one of 190 acres, within two miles of town, mostly cleared land. Price $20 per acre for each tract—payments on easy terms. Also many other valuable farms and town lots too numerous to mention.

THE GREAT BALOON.

You've heard about the great balloon,
In which Professor Wise
Proposed to go to Europe,
By sailing through the skies,
He proposed to show the people
A quicker way for trips
Than ever had been known before,
By sailing o'er in ship.

Well everything seemed lovely
Upon that Autumn day,
When they began to pump in gas
To bear the barge away.
They pumped and pumped with all their power,
And things seemednigh adjusted—
When there came an awful crash,
And the mighth bubble busted.

It's ever thus in human life,
Go whereso'er we may,
The darkest night will oft succeed
The brightest, sunniest day,
There are exceptions to this rule,
Where all the days are fair,—
For one, go down to Johnsg Hall,
You'll find things all right tnere.

We've thought it best in cases like this,
This little fact to mention;
You need net ferr that they'll inflate
Beyond their power of retention.
And when they undertake to go
Their geer's so well adjusted,
They'll move straigh forward to their work,
With no fear of being "busted."
